

Banyan Sales Campaign This Week; All Books Must Be Collected

The Banyan sales campaign began in earnest Monday morning when a number of students, armed with their good greeting cards, a new form of "free a Banyan". The sales contest will last the whole week.

Monday's devotional period began a week which has been for the most important of the school year. The students are being reminded of the importance of loyal support to those chosen to carry on the work of the Professor Harrison R. Merrill spoke in the value of a year's work to the students.

Tuesday marked the beginning of the voting for the celebrants. A student member will be at the table in the hall of the education building each day during the week.

Friday, the last day of the campaign, will be marked by the present in eleven drives in College Hall and the campus.

The program promises to be interesting and profitable. The students will have many novel features as they are to be included in the activity.

The dance and night will prove grand finale to a successful week of sales and will be awarded.

The names of the exhibitors will be announced at the dance.

According to all reports the week's work will be a success.

The staff wishes to remind the students that they can buy a year book. Last year's year book is now on sale.

The books can be bought at the book store. It is necessary to order your Banyan this week, since the books are not available after the first of March.

The following students are Banyan salesmen: Lowell Williams, Anna Lee, Mary Jane, Richard, and the girls.

UNION DEBATE HELD TUESDAY EVENING

The Inter-Mountain Union College met in a battle of brains yesterday evening. The discussion and debate was most interesting to those who have any particular interest in the subject. The arguments were passed lively for over an hour.

The Inter-Mountain Union College showed their strength in defending the affirmative side of the question. Resolved, that congress should be empowered to over ride by a two-thirds vote decisions of the supreme court which declare congressional acts unconstitutional. The members of the visiting team were: Robert Miller, a senior who has had three years of college; and Edward P. Keadwell, who is a year student in college. Both men are logical thinkers and proved the question from the point of view of the affirmative.

The Brigham Young University team consisted of: H. C. Smith, a senior and Lorenzo Parker, a freshman. The team was on the triangle team. The team won the victory over the Utah team. The team was on the triangle team. The team won the victory over the Utah team.

HOW TO 'SWAT THE SNAKE TONGUE' TRIED BY Y IN RAPH PARLETTE

Rapt attention shot through by convulsions of laughter was the tribute paid to Ralph Parlette by the large audience that packed College Hall last Thursday evening. For an hour and a half the "jolly bachelors" held the audience spell bound with the gems of their wit, unique whimsies and their queer antics.

"How to 'Swat the Snake Tongue'" was the name applied by Mr. Parlette to his unusual lecture. To Mr. Parlette the jungle represents the mass of men and women. The two types have never produced a strong race of people because they have never had to work and struggle for the existence. Applying the law of the jungle to material wealth and property, Mr. Parlette showed how people were inclined to take material wealth and property as their end.

NEW STYLE DEBATE TRIED BY Y IN WYOMING CONTEST

The Wyoming-B. Y. U. debate held in College Hall Saturday night, though an experiment for the "Y," was to all appearances enjoyed by those who were present. This was the first open forum debate ever participated in by "Y."

The Immigration question, Resolved, that the immigration law of 1924 be amended so as to admit Japanese on the same basis as European, was debated by Cooper and Christensen of the Brigham Young University alternative and Fern and Gerson, Wyoming, negative.

In making the case for the affirmative, Mr. Cooper developed the issue that the small number of Japanese which would be admitted under a quota law would not be a detriment to those who are the thousands who will, as they maintain, be augmented in number by the Japanese.

ALDER SPEAKS ON "JIM BRIDGER" WED

"Jim Bridger is entitled to a better place in history than has been given him," said J. Cecil Alder, otherwise known as the weather man, who was the speaker at western last Wednesday. "He spent the greater part of his life in the western mountains and was captured by our Kit Carson of Buffalo Bill."

Mr. Alder gave a brief biography of Jim Bridger and then recounted a variety of incidents in his life which helped to earn him the position he holds in the history of the West.

"We was a tall, angular, bony fellow," he said, "and the speaker, 'but this can only be accounted for when you know that at one time he was seventeen years without taking food."

Through his life in the wilds Bridger came to know the Indians as few other white men have ever known them. He was familiar with their various languages but more than he knew the red man's mind. Because of this knowledge, Mr. Alder was known as an interpreter and guide.

When Bridger and Kit Carson were of the fur trade he saw the need of a "half-breed" for the accommodation of the travelers journeying through the country. To meet this need, he established Fort Bridger, which place the Mormons later purchased from him.

Along with the more sturdy qualities which Jim Bridger possessed, the speaker told his listeners of the love of a woman which he had in his heart. He was a man of many moods, and at one time while talking with him about Mexico a certain incident came to mind that there he would find a place where the fall of Bridger had turned to stone.

"Why that particular," Bridger returned, "I can show you a place here, where there are petrified trees standing upright with petrified vines in the branches, singing petrified and petrified."

Another time he was telling a story of his experiences fighting with an Indian on the edge of a cliff. He told of a moment before finishing the tale and when going to the edge of the cliff he and me there we were.

"Jim Bridger loved the West," concluded the speaker, "and just before he died he said he would have been getting along in his paradise in Salt Lake valley."

Cougars and Utah Split Series; Utah Has Chance To Tie For State Pennant

Utah and Aggies to Play Final Games This Week End
A Split Will Give Cougar State Honors.

In the "Y-U" series last Friday and Saturday night the gobble of victory was passed around and each team took a share of the spoils. Utah's victory over the Aggies on Friday night was a 10-0 win. The Cougar took their turn Saturday night by forcing the Utah out on the little end of a 41 to 30 score. Blood was hot and fighting fast, for the victors meant pride to the teams and schools in the future. If the Utah took both games of the series, one victory from the A. C. next week end would give them the title, now that Utah gathered only one of the two games, two games from the Aggies will tie them with the "Y". The "Y" has won her game and is at all probability the A. C. and Utah will split their games and that will give the state favorites the long.

FRIDAY'S GAME

The Utah machine forced the "Y" to acknowledge the short end of a 30 to 24 score by playing a new type of ball, composed of football and basketball. Critics said that the Friday game was probably the roughest and most interesting contest played on the hardwood since Sumner was the high score. The "Y" gained a lead in the second half and maintained it until the end by a perfect team defense. Utah played man f man, and the defense was so tight that Utah football tactics the "Y" team, despite their tight and spirit, could not pull through. Overall, always waiting for Stewart as he came down the floor. "Back" Dixon came out, played that out by the long "Vic" Packer. Packer and Bobberg worked all the time and through it all the Cougar got one long field goal in the last half.

The "Y" started off, and scored high points before the Utah half. Howard held down the side and regained the first "Y" center. The Cougar for Utah then became the main influence and at the half the "Y" ended 16 to 10.

At the beginning of the second half Utah broke away and the main stars were fouls and more fouls. Near the close of the half Utah took another point, the game turned into a riot and then came the final gun.

SATURDAY'S GAME

The "Y" took a big long quest from the cup of victory. The odd game was a 10-0 win. The Cougar was turned upside down when the "Y" drew blood from the Utah Saturday 41 to 30. In this game the Utah chances for the pennant was taken a severe set back. The best the Utah can do now is to scalp the Cougar and then the Cougar will be the team that will tie them with the Provo aggregation.

The Saturday night game was a much more clinic affair than the night before, a much better game of a collegiate brand of ball was played. For concerted a chance for the Cougar to take the second game and the experienced champions carried through that assertion. The "Y" started out playing an early lead, the Cougar then going and before long the score was evened up.

"Back" Dixon, the ace of the B. Y. combination drew first blood by scoring a field goal. The score was 10-0 in favor of the Cougar. The Cougar started Utah on its way by making good a free try. The Cougar entered a spectacular field goal from near the center of the floor. Wood went through with another free kick and evened the score. The Utah then slipped the ball through the long giving Utah the long end of a 14 to 13 count.

The second half drew the Cougar to the end of and after the first half, minutes of play the Cougar was never in doubt, although the Utah did
